Mr. Carlos Morales Gil resigns as Director General of Pemex-Exploration and Production

Mr. Gustavo Hernández García will replace him as Acting Director General of Pemex-Exploration and Production

Mr. Emilio Lozoya Austin, Director General of Petróleos Mexicanos, accepted the resignation of Mr. Carlos Morales Gil as Director General of Pemex-Exploration and Production ("PEP"), a subsidiary of Petróleos Mexicanos.

Mr. Gustavo Hernández García, who has served as Deputy Director of Planning and Evaluation of PEP since 2010, will replace Mr. Carlos Morales Gil as Acting Director General of PEP.

In the presence of both the Secretary of Energy, Mr. Pedro Joaquín Coldwell, and PEP’s management team, Mr. Lozoya Austin acknowledged the important contributions of Mr. Morales Gil during his more than nine years of leadership at PEP, in addition to his more than 30 years of service at Petróleos Mexicanos and its subsidiaries (collectively, “Pemex”). He wished Mr. Morales Gil success in his future endeavors.

In addition, Mr. Lozoya Austin called on PEP’s management team and employees to renew their efforts and commitment to achieve their goals and to reinvigorate the unit, whose role is fundamental to Pemex’s operations.

Mr. Lozoya Austin stated that Pemex’s greatest asset is its human capital, an example of which is Mr. Morales Gil’s fruitful tenure, and while his term at Pemex has come to an end, Mr. Morales Gil will remain part of the Pemex family, sharing his experience and know-how.

Finally, Mr. Lozoya Austin reiterated Petróleos Mexicanos’ commitment to prepare and train new generations of professional, technical and operational personnel, and he indicated that a new compensation and promotion system is being developed based on measurable performance targets in order to enhance Pemex’s competitiveness in line with the objectives set forth by President Enrique Peña Nieto.

Secretary of Energy Mr. Joaquín Coldwell highlighted that Mr. Morales Gil has played a leading role in the petroleum industry’s history over the past three decades and will have a lasting impression on future generations of engineers and technicians due to his ability to establish a cohesive work team.

On behalf of the Federal Government of Mexico, the Secretary of Energy thanked Mr. Morales Gil for his commitment, effort and contributions to Pemex and to the national petroleum industry.
